Alistair Gollop leaves Mott MacDonald to focus on ITS Now

Alistair Gollop, Technical Principal - Global Transport Technology Technical Champion at Mott MacDonald, has announced that following the huge amount of support and positive feedback that he has received from across the industry, will be leaving the company to focus his activities at ITS Now.

ITS Now exists to promote best practice and professional development within the Intelligent Transport Systems (ITS) sector by originating a range of resources, including videos on the popular YouTube channel, reference books and guidance documents.

“I am incredibly grateful to Mott MacDonald,” said Alistair “the company has provided me with a succession of interesting and challenging projects, set against a professional and supportive framework. As Technical Principal, I have particularly enjoyed helping to develop the Highways Academy by writing and developing learning resources for our practitioners worldwide. However, I am excited to focus on my work with ITS Now, which I believe has the potential to make a real difference across the ITS sector and I am committed to making it a success. I am particularly grateful for the support I have received from some of the industry’s key organisations for Season 2 of our YouTube channel @ITSNow which we will start to release over the next few weeks.”

Alistair is a recognised Intelligent Transport Systems (ITS) industry figure with over 30 years in-depth experience and is a popular speaker and panel chair at conferences around the globe. He also sits on the board of The Institute of Highway Engineers, where he is currently the Vice-chair of the Professional Development Portfolio.

“I’d like to thank Alistair,” said Peter McLeod, Head of Technology and Systems at Mott MacDonald, “for the significant contribution he has made to Technology and Systems and the wider Mott MacDonald team over the years, and wish him all the best for the future”.
